"Making Educated Decisions Possible"

When the family is faced with the overwhelming, emotionally draining, task of trying to find the best resources for a loved one who has been accused and charged with a serious crime is often a blind effort. The first thing is to get an understanding of charges, the severity, and the sentencing guidelines that such charges have. The reason that this is important is simple. One can't make an educated decision if they don't know what they are making a decision on.

If it is deemed appropriate, one will need to find an attorney to consult with. There are pages and pages of attorneys in every city and finding the one right for the case is very important. It is worth the time and effort to find an attorney who specializes in the specific needs you need. It is equally important that you "interview" the attorney / law firm and make sure that it is the best fit. This process is no different than hiring any other type of contractor or service provider. Just because a company does flooring does not mean that they can do wood floors, they may specialize in carpeting. Below you will find a list of attorneys who specialize in criminal and juvenile cases.

Often times we take law enforcements reports at face value and don't understand the procedures associated with proper investigations. Although, I do not believe that the errors are intentional but we are all human and we all make mistakes. Major crime scenes are very tedious, detail orientated, long hours, and human factors begin to take effect. Short cuts are taken, reports are not as thorough, and evidence is over looked-compromised – left behind- not photographed; the list goes on and on. This oversight in procedures could drastically effect the direction of an investigation.

The importance of finding a good private investigator is equally important as the attorney you choose. An investigator who is specifically trained and experienced in a specific area is imperative to the case. Only they will know what areas need to be followed up on, looked at, reanalyzed, and developed. I recently had a file come across my desk where the attorney told me that the person charged was now saying she not driving the car and that it was another girl who claimed to be sitting in the backseat. After careful review of the file, we determined that neither one was driving and was a third person all together. Our findings will prove to be monumental in this life changing event and ensure that the right person is held accountable for their actions. Other cases that I have investigated produced evidence that were consistent with involuntary manslaughter and not 1st degree murder.

The bottom line is you must take control of things and demand that your needs are met. In serious life changing cases, there is no medal for second place. There is one opportunity to make a first impression, we better make it count! For more information please contact one of the resources below.
